CONCEPT NOTE

Reverse Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) in the Winter Hills- 77, Gurgaon Case

Introduction: Inspired by the Supreme Court's emphasis on economic experimentation, the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal introduced the Reverse Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) in the Winter Hills – 77, Gurgaon case. This innovative approach, also known as Project-wise resolution, prioritizes the interests of allottees/buyers of flats, shops, or apartments. While lacking explicit statutory backing, reverse CIRP aims to safeguard the interests of buyers, aligning with the primary objective of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code as highlighted in the case of Committee of Creditors of Essar Steel India Limited v. Satish Kumar Gupta & Ors. (2019 SCC online SC 1478).

Background: In the Winter Hills – 77, Gurgaon case, Mrs Rachna Singh and Mr Ajay Singh, acting as financial creditors, initiated the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process against Umang Realtech Pvt. Ltd., a real estate company. However, the initial deposit mandated by the National Company Law Tribunal proved insufficient to sustain the company as a going concern and complete the construction of flats/apartments, raising critical questions regarding asset distribution and creditor treatment.

The Winter Hills case raised three pivotal issues for consideration:

1. Scope of CIRP: Should the CIRP against a real estate company be limited to the specific project in question or extended to encompass other projects?
2. Creditor Preference: Should secured financial creditors be prioritized over unsecured financial creditors?
3. Allottee Refunds: Can claims for refunds by allottees be entertained by the adjudicating authority?

The Supreme Court emphasized that CIRP should focus solely on the initiated project to maximize assets for creditors. It clarified that separate projects of the same company should not be affected by CIRP for one project, ensuring each project's independent treatment. Regarding creditor preference, the Court stated that secured creditors should not have priority over unsecured creditors, especially allottees. It suggested modifying agreements to meet creditors' claims without favoring secured creditors. Regarding refund claims, the Court ruled against entertaining them directly but allowed avenues for allottees to seek refunds through the Interim Resolution Professional or the Promoter.

भारतीय दिवाला और शोधन अधिमता बोर्ड
Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India

Innovation in Resolution Process: The Winter Hills case also paved the way for innovative solutions such as Reverse CIRP, enabling promoters to overcome regulatory barriers and propose viable strategies for project completion. This approach, endorsed by the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, empowers promoters to infuse funds and regain control of the company, thereby ensuring creditor satisfaction and project delivery under the supervision of the Resolution Professional and the NCLT.

Conclusion: Precedents set by cases like Rajesh Goyal Vs. Babita Gupta and Anand Murti Vs. Soni Infratech Private Limited further validate the efficacy of Reverse CIRP in resolving complex insolvencies, particularly in the real estate sector. By prioritizing the interests of allottees and providing avenues for project completion, Reverse CIRP heralds a paradigmshift in insolvency resolution processes. The Winter Hills – 77, Gurgaon case underscores the importance of innovative approaches like Reverse CIRP in navigating intricate insolvency scenarios, ensuring equitable treatment of stakeholders, and preserving the viability of distressed companies. As the legal landscape evolves, Reverse CIRP promises to emerge as a potent tool for revitalizing ailing projects and restoring investor confidence in the corporate insolvency regime.

Project Wise Resolution in M/s Supertech Ltd. -Ram Kishor Arora vs. Union Bank of India

Facts:

The appeal challenges the NCLT's order dated March 25, 2022, admitting Union Bank of India's application under Section 7 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), initiating Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) against M/s. Supertech Limited. M/s. Supertech Limited, a real estate company, received credit facilities from Union Bank of India and Bank of Baroda for the Eco Village II Project. Default on repayment led to the account being declared a Non-Performing Asset (NPA). Union Bank of India filed a Section 7 application in March 2021, seeking Rs. 431,92,53,302 as of January 31, 2021. The NCLT admitted the application, appointing an Interim Resolution Professional (IRP). The suspended director of M/s. Supertech Limited filed the appeal, with subsequent discussions and offers for settlement. Various intervention applications were filed by home buyers, the Association of Home Buyers, and IDBI Bank. The appellant had also submitted a Resolution cum Settlement Proposal.

Arguments: Mr. Arun Kathpalia and Mr. Abhijeet Sinha, counsel for the Appellant, presented a settlement proposal, offering full repayment along with upfront payment and emphasizing the Corporate Debtor's capability to complete projects and meet obligations Counsel for the Appellant referred to previous tribunal judgments on Reverse CIRP and emphasized the readiness of the Corporate Debtor's promoters to cooperate. Detailed settlement plans were submitted, highlighting the Corporate Debtor's financial standing and proposed project completion strategies. The counsels for the appellant argued for the continuation of CIRP, stating Corporate Debtor's fragile financial condition and the need for minimal judicial interference.

भारतीय दिवाला और शोधन अधिमता बोर्ड
Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India

Ruling:

The court extensively deliberated on the Appellant's plea for project-wise resolution, drawing from legal precedents such as the case of 'Flat Buyers Association Winter Hills' and the seminal judgment of 'Swiss Ribbons Pvt. Ltd.' Whereas the judiciary underscored the importance of experimentation in economic matters, emphasizing the significance of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) in the country's economic framework. The court proceeded to discuss the 'Reverse Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process' as explored in 'Flat Buyers Association Winter Hills', where project-wise resolution was deemed essential for real estate companies. It highlighted that such an approach safeguards the interests of allottees and ensures the completion of projects, thus supporting the economy by sustaining employment in the sector. Taking into account the facts presented, particularly the status report submitted by the IRP, the court noted that the ongoing projects of the Corporate Debtor were of significant scale, with substantial units already sold. In light of these considerations, the court made interim directions to initiate project-wise resolution, commencing with the Eco Village II Project. This involved permitting the constitution of a Committee of Creditors (CoC) specifically for Eco Village II and empowering the IRP to oversee the project's completion. Furthermore, the court stressed the importance of maintaining separate accounts and detailed financial records for each project, in compliance with RERA guidelines. The court's directions included provisions for supervising expenses, with all payments requiring the IRP's approval and funds being utilized for project-specific purposes.

IBBI (Insolvency Resolution Process for Corporate Persons) (Amendment) Regulations, 2024; No. IBBI/2023-24/GN/Reg113 notified on 15th February, 2024.

In a landmark move, the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI) unveiled groundbreaking amendments to the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (Insolvency Resolution Process for Corporate Persons) Regulations, 2016, through the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (Insolvency Resolution Process for Corporate Persons) (Amendment) Regulations, 2024, announced on February 15, 2024. These amendments herald a new era in the corporate insolvency resolution landscape, designed to usher in enhanced efficiency, transparency, and accountability across the spectrum.

Thorough Examination:

- 1. Segmented Financial Management for Real Estate Ventures (Regulation 4D): A revolutionary stipulation mandates the establishment of distinct bank accounts for each real estate project by the interim resolution professional or resolution professional. This directive, aimed at ensuring a focused financial approach tailored to the unique requirements of each project, represents a paradigm shift in financial management practices within the real estate sector.
- 2. Optimized Committee Meeting Protocols (Regulation 18): The regulatory framework introduces a redefined timeframe for convening committee meetings, stressing the importance of holding a meeting before the lapse of thirty days from the preceding one. While providing flexibility to extend the interval between meetings, the regulations underscore the indispensability of quarterly meetings to maintain the momentum of the resolution process.
- 3. Augmented Emphasis on Electronic Voting (Regulation 25): Elevating the electronic voting system to a prominent position, the amendments empower members who abstained from voting during meetings to actively participate in crucial decision-making processes. Additionally, provisions for granting extensions on creditor requests, subject to the receipt of requisite majority votes, underscore a commitment to inclusivity and democratic decision-making.
- 4. Mandatory Committee Oversight for Costs Approval (New Regulation 31B): A novel regulatory provision now mandates the approval of the committee for insolvency resolution process costs, marking a significant stride towards enhancing transparency and accountability in financial matters pertaining to the corporate debtor. This measure serves to instill investor confidence and bolster stakeholder trust in the resolution process.

Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India

- 5. Enhanced Clarity on Valuation Methodology (Regulation 35): Introducing a proviso necessitating a comprehensive explanation of the valuation methodology by registered valuers to committee members before the computation of estimates, the amendments ensure clarity and comprehension in valuation processes. This provision aims to mitigate ambiguity and foster informed decision-making among stakeholders.
- 6. Flexibility in Fair Value Disclosure (Regulation 36): Recognizing the nuanced nature of fair value disclosure, the amendments afford the committee discretion to withhold disclosure if deemed conducive to the resolution process. This provision introduces a level of flexibility, enabling stakeholders to tailor information-sharing practices to specific contexts and exigencies.
- 7. Introduction of Resolution Plan for Real Estate Ventures (New Regulation 36A): Post-committee approval, resolution professionals are empowered to solicit resolution plans for each real estate project or project group of the corporate debtor, ushering in a targeted and customized approach to resolution efforts within the real estate sector. This provision aims to optimize outcomes and streamline resolution processes in a sector characterized by complex and heterogeneous projects.
- 8. Establishment of Monitoring Committee (New Sub-Regulations in Regulation 38): Recognizing the imperative of effective oversight in ensuring successful resolution plan execution, the amendments introduce provisions for the establishment of a monitoring committee. This committee, comprising seasoned professionals and subject matter experts, is tasked with overseeing the implementation of resolution plans and mitigating operational challenges, thereby enhancing the efficacy and sustainability of resolution efforts.
- 9. Clarification on Resolution Professional Responsibilities (Regulation 40): A clarificatory provision ensures continuity in the discharge of resolution professional responsibilities until the Adjudicating Authority adjudicates on extension applications. This provision aims to eliminate ambiguity and provide clarity on the scope and duration of resolution professional duties, thereby ensuring seamless and uninterrupted resolution process management.

Conclusion:

The sweeping amendments introduced by the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India signify a watershed moment in the evolution of corporate insolvency resolution mechanisms. By addressing critical lacunae and introducing innovative measures aimed at enhancing efficiency, transparency, and accountability, these amendments underscore a steadfast commitment to fortifying the insolvency resolution framework. Through these reforms, the IBBI seeks to foster a conducive environment for resolution efforts, promote investor confidence, and uphold stakeholder interests, thereby contributing to the stability, resilience, and credibility of India's insolvency ecosystem.
